

Oil+Water - 1/1

He lit the fire in my heart
And with the same flame burnt my world down stark
I gave him the entire thing
At 1st he gently held it then got bored and started carving
Love, all one needs, what I need is to try healing
And then make sure I never fall back into that feeling
Love and I, to one another never truly loyal
We don't mix to well, love flows like water I burn like oil
Yet I look around
And there is all this water but none that I should drink
I notice now that I am oil, and oil is all that I should think
A tiny pin prick came little spurts of blood
A little trickle long enough can surely cause the flood
But last night he sped the process
He sliced it open then walked away and cut his losses
Love, all one needs, what I need is to try healing
And then make sure I never fall back into that feeling
Love and I, to one another never truly loyal
We don't mix to well, love flows like water I slipped like oil
Yet I look around
And there is all this water but none that I should drink
I notice now that I am oil, and oil is all that I should think
So beautiful and capable of bringing me good news
Now the enemy with knives and pins looking to bruise
You fell out as quickly as you fell in
You never fell at all I was just kidding
[Love, all one needs, what I need is to try healing
And then make sure I never fall back into that feeling
Love and I, to one another never truly loyal
We don't mix to well, love flows like water I burn like oil]
Yet I look around
And there is all this water but none that I should drink
I notice now that I am oil, and oil is all that I should think
