

Suzie blue - 1/1

Interprété par Ben Harper.

Won't you sing me the blues
Won't you sing me the blues
Sing me something my heart can use
Misery, love's a symphony
'Cos your face, your pretty face
Can lost in a crowd
And you say no one's there
To hear you cry out loud
What will you do, Suzie Blue?
Where did you learn to do that so well
Where did you learn to do that so well
I guess that would be like kissing 'til
If it's a secret, why do you show me?
But your heart's away from the love you used to hold
Don't say at what your self borrow
The day is new, Suzie Blue
The day is new, Suzie Blue
Real life has let you down
Real life has let you down
Someone stripped the shoes from your ground
Everybody is always somebody's something
Kissing from heaven in your arms
And we'll make love to the memories
They will always see us new, Suzie Blue
The day is new, Suzie Blue
The day is new, Suzie Blue
