

Crying In The Night - 1/1

Interprété par Boyzone.

alone just sitting here thinking of you 'til it hurts you're young so innocent without a care in the world you're there but not visible my expectations become but do you think it's right and do you think it's right crying in the night for crying in the night ohh in the night my road was different there's so much that you have to learn a little hand in mine and all the smiles and laughter is fine wherever i'll be land or sea i will care for thee

but do you think it's right
and do you think it's right crying in the night for crying in the night ohh in the night

each day provides its own gifts time brings all to pass writing comes more easily when you've got something to say you're young and beautiful have no enemy but time in time, take time when time does last for time is no time when time is passed

but do you think it's right
and do you think it's right
crying in the night for crying
in the night ohh in the night