If I could stay awake for awhile
I would see another morning
Don't wanna fall asleep now when
Everything seems so far and beyond

Walking down a familiar road
But the darkness is misleading me
I know I should feel fear inside
Still the shadow's where I wanna be

Just an ordinary day stealing all the hope away
Wanting me to be the one who has dreams made of clay

My fading confused mind
Creating phrases unknown

I know I shouldn't stay awake
If I fall asleep they just might find me
Now all is so clear
I can finally proceed

Just an ordinary day stealing all the hope away
Wanting me to be the one who has dreams made of clay

My fading confused mind
Creating phrases unknown

Waiting for the dawn soon to arrive
So few options that I have and I can use
Life's circumstances can be so cruel
If I take a chance I just might make the wrong move
