Here I am beside myself again
I'm torn apart by words that you have said
All in all, I know we're falling apart
Where did you run to so far away?

Here we are to sing you a song
There you are asleep against the window pane
Just like always

You said you like to hear the rain sometimes
All I can do is tell you the truth
And oh, my eyes will tell you the same

Here we are to sing you a song
There you are asleep again

Grasp our hands together, we feel we are one result
