Paroles : Richard M. Johnson

Staring out the window
Wondering will I soon know
The answers to the questions within
Where should I begin?
Delusioned by a clear winter night
While trying to find some insight
The solution is close at hand
Yet still so far away

I&#039;ll turn the tables &#039;round and find another way
I&#039;ll leave all this behind and move on today

I will take things as they come
Look out for number one
And I&#039;ll be back tomorrow
Feeling strong and brave inside
My head up high with pride
Yes I&#039;ll be back tomorrow

I&#039;m facing my nightmares again
Determined that I won&#039;t bend
The answers are coming to me
I&#039;m learning how to believe
I know now that this is the way
I&#039;ve found my red-letter day
I&#039;ve been there out on a limb
But now I&#039;ve finally come in

I&#039;ve turn the tables &#039;round and found another way
I&#039;ve left it all behind for a better day

I will take things as they come
Look out for number one
And I&#039;ll be back tomorrow
Feeling strong and brave inside
My head up high with pride
Yes I&#039;ll be back tomorrow
