> If I could stay awake for awhile I would see another morning Don't wanna fall asleep now when Everything seems so far and beyond

Walking down a familiar road But the darkness is misleading me I know I should feel fear inside Still the shadow's where I wanna be

Just an ordinary day stealing all the hope away Wanting me to be the one who has dreams made of clay

My fading confused mind Creating phrases unknown

I know I shouldn't stay awake
If I fall asleep they just might find me
Now all is so clear
I can finally proceed

Just an ordinary day stealing all the hope away Wanting me to be the one who has dreams made of clay

My fading confused mind Creating phrases unknown

Waiting for the dawn soon to arrive So few options that I have and I can use Life's circumstances can be so cruel If I take a chance I just might make the wrong move
