Paroles: Luca Turilli

Cruel Akron bloody bastard I now spit on you
You can turn my bones to black ash but I'll move the moon
I will light your evil kingdom and your heart will burn in flames Mutilated or dismembered
we'll soon rise to eat your brain
You will pay for your victims and for Airin's bloody rape
For Arwald my dear friend and all my crying wasted land
I call the rage of my dead
I call the black angels' tears

Also Dargor can't endure all... goes out from the cave while the demons take the hero for their tragic game Gods of earth save me from madness from these rites of total shame while descending in the red flame Arwald dies but not in vain They will pay for this nightmare, for the symphony of pain For Airin, my dead friend and all my crying wasted land I call the Tharos' fire I call the thunder roar

Raise your voice and ride all ride all brave, raise your sword to the sky and sing the epic symphony for the mighty and proud firelord

Arwald's acid broke the silver chains before his very last breath
Akron laughing really doesn't know what now waits for him...
Gods are raging leading my red steel heads and limbs are falling down
It's in me the mystic messenger bringer of revenge
"Black angel, I call you! King Chaos is raging in the torment of my heart...
I call the holy earthquake to end this bloody hell!"
Gods are raging leading my red steel heads and limbs are falling down
It's in me the mystic messenger bringer of revenge while she comes, beloved sunlight

On the river known as Aigor

The mighty ride of the firelord - 2/2

our hero found his way
All the demons desperately search for him now but in vain
They will pay for this nightmare, for the symphony of pain
For Airin, my dead friend and all my crying wasted land
I call the Tharos' fire
I call the thunder roar

Raise your voice and ride all ride all brave, raise your sword to the sky and sing the epic symphony for the mighty and proud firelord
