Old hollywood - 1/1

Interprété par Julian Casablancas.

In Old Hollywood, proud and gray All of the ghosts gathered round the TV

We can argue all that you like We can argue until we fight But the loser may have been right

Glamorous, black and white Zoning out, most the night

Why do we end up imitating All the ones that we once were hating

Men are clumsy, violent fools Women are a delicate pool of flowers and cobras

Short story long I put it in a song As the TV was shouting on:

Because being quiet can sometimes be more powerful than being right You could try it

We can argue all that you like We can argue until we fight But the loser may have been right